Blaine Says Buchanan Carried it.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]

LANCASTER, Oct. 12.—Respecting the controversy as to how Kentucky's electoral vote was cast in 1856, I find the following in Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress," Vol. 1, page 129:

"Buchanan's election was not a surprise. Indeed it had been generally expected. He received the electoral vote of every Southern State except Maryland, which pronounced for Fillmore. In the North, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and California voted for Buchanan. The other eleven free States, beginning with Maine and ending with Iowa declared for Fillmore. The popular vote was for Buchanan, 1,838,169, Fremont, 1,341,264, Fillmore 874,534."

The Brooklyn Union (Rep.) says: "The low plane to which the Blaine candidacy has brought down the republican party is perhaps nowhere more strikingly shown than in Massachusetts. A year ago the republican party was leading the self-respecting voters of the Bay State in a desperate effort to dislodge the demagogue who had intrenched himself in the State house and he was held up to scorn as the public enemy that he really is. This year the nomination by the republicans of a corrupt man for the Presidency has so endangered their hold upon Massachusetts that the only assurance of preventing Cleveland from carrying the State is by encouraging the diversion of democratic votes to Butler and the candidate of the 'People's party' is not only kindly treated by the republican press, but is receiving substantial support in his campaign from the republican managers. To such depths has sunk, under Jas. G. Blaine, the old party of Charles Sumner and John A. Andrew."

The New York Times says: "Cleveland's election would be the rebuke of the most threatening vice of our time and country, the spirit of reckless speculation in business and of shameless jobbery. The two are one evil. The election of James G. Blaine would be a direct appeal to every young man to adopt dishonesty and affluence as the methods of success. These are some of the reasons which justify republicans in supporting a candidate not of their party. The American people must elect as president James G. Blaine, corruptionist, or Grover Cleveland, reformer. For which, reader, will you cast your vote?"

Ball, the tumble bug of Buffalo, whose chief ministerial labors during the summer have been the retailing of cheap and nasty slanders against Governor Cleveland, is about to be hoisted by his own petard. A lady of his congregation has furnished a statement which proves him a falsifier and establishes an effort to commit a greater sin than he has attempted to saddle upon Grover Cleveland. Mr. Ball should dig him a little hole by the wayside and tumble into it.

Newspapers printed at sea are not uncommon. The practice of publishing a paper on board ships was inaugurated on the steamer Great Britain, which started for Australia on the 21st of August, 1852. These seaborne journals do much to relieve the monotony of the passage, filled as they are with stories, burlesque telegrams and stories by the passengers and all the drift of epic incidents that happen from week to week on ship board.

A painful accident happened to the son of Barney Heeneey, of Union Township, a few days ago. His mother sent him to the cornfield for roasting ears. He had to use a ladder to get up to the ears, when he climbed out upon an ear and proceeded to saw it off between himself and the stalk, precipitating him to the ground and bruising him severely. Had it not been that the shade of the corn had kept the ground moist and soft he would have been killed.

Jefferson Davis is now the last of his line. He has been married twice and has no male descendant who bears his name. Not long since he lost his only son and recently the death of Gen. Joseph R. Davis, of Biloxi, Miss., took away the last hope of perpetuating by male descendants the name of Jefferson Davis.

The muster rolls of the United States army and navy show that in the war between the States there were enlisted 2,064,000 men.

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching and affecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—A. B. McKinney, wife and daughter, the last delegation of the excursionists, returned on Sunday, greatly pleased with their trip.

—Jno. C. Frye sold his farm on Carpenters Creek to Wm. Stagg—109 acres for $4,000. Mr. Frye embarks for Kansas and Mr. Stagg in matrimony.

—Mr. L. F. Sharp sold his residence in Hustonville, the old Logan property—to John S. Good for $2,000. Mr. G. was able in the trade to put in 5 head of horses for $1,200.

—Advices from Waco, Texas, announces the death, at that place on the 3d inst., of Miss Rosa, sister of our clever young merchant, Geo. B. Cooper. Miss Rosa was about 19 years of age; disease, typhoid fever.

—The talk in town is all railroad at present. It is impossible to predict the result. As the matter is to be discussed by able men previous to the day of voting we shall probably be able to vote intelligently. Just now we are in search of more light.

—Rev. I. S. Mc Elroy met his congregation here on Sunday. Elder Munnell is still at work at the Christian church. Rev. T. P. Hale is getting up considerable interest in the Baptist church at McKinney. Some thirteen persons were baptized in connection with this meeting on Saturday.

Don't Want a Bow-legged Husband.

"I can not sit on your lap."

Regally beautiful was Beryl Hopkins as she stood there that soft June night in the dim, half light that filtered through the exquisitely draped portiere separating the parlor of her father's magnificent residence from the conservatory into which she and Harold Holdback quite leisurely sauntered. From childhood Beryl had all ways loved flowers—bright, pretty flowers, whose vivid colors set off to the best possible advantage the statuesque lines of her queenly form—and now as she stood among them, blushing roses on one hand and pale delicate lilies on the other, it was no wonder that the soft flesh tint and bewitching curves of her face and arms fairly intoxicated Harold Holdback and made him more madly in love than ever with this June-like girl who had promised that ere the autumn tints on the heather had faded she would crown the bliss of courtship with the sacred halo of a wisely love and devotion.

And so when the lips that had been wont to give him kisses—sweet, rapturous, were the sole agents for this brand kisses that set his brain in a whirl and almost broke his suspenders—had said to him the words with which this chapter opens, he was unable to reply. The lights seemed fading away, black clouds overspread the horizon of his existence, and sore-eyed Care stood knock kneed upon the summit of a life that such a little while ago seemed to hold only joy and hope.

But it was only for an instant that this weakness mastered him, and drawing himself up proudly he said: "Why can you not sit on my lap? I know, of course, that the words you have spoken mean that we are not to marry, that—"

"What!" shrieked the girl in an agony of grief. "Not marry! My God, Harold, and did you for an instant think that my love for you had faltered; that to be your wife was not the sole ambition of my life? Ah, this is indeed too much," and turning away she silently watered a horse-geranium with the hot, bitter tears of sorrow and remorse.

"Then you still love me?" he asked.

"Better than ever," the words coming slowly between large hand-made sobs.

"Then why will you not sit on my lap?"

"Because," she answered in tones that filled his very blood, "I do not desire a bow-legged husband."—[Chicago Tribune.

THE PASSION FOR CITY LIFE.

Dr. Johnson once said that to live in London enabled a man to see the whole world, with all its schemes, excitements and never-ceasing novelties. Perhaps it is this exciting feature of city life which continually draws ambitious young men from independent and comfortable homes in the country and smaller towns to the large cities. How else can the wide spread passion for city life be accounted for? To share in this metropolitan excitement men seem ready to run any risk and brave the perils of bankruptcy. In a season like the present, when so many strong firms, after long years of strenuous toil and assiduous application, have perished, it would be well for those who are thriving in comfortable independence in the quietude of country towns to adopt the golden philosophy of contentment. Great cities are the necessary outgrowth of a great country, but the country makes them, not they the country; and unquestionably to the majority, the greater their ventures the greater will be the peril of a disastrous ending.

The rich and dashing Mrs. Wetmore, who has just been acquitted in New York of bigamy, can not read nor write. Her early opportunities were neglected and as she was seven times married, she afterward found no time to devote to such unnecessary accomplishments.

JUST AS GOOD.

Many unscrupulous dealers may tell you they have remedies for Coughs and Colds equal in merit and in every respect just as good as the old reliable Dr. Bosanko Cough and Lung Syrup, unless you insist upon this remedy and will take no other, you are liable to be greatly deceived. Prices, 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—D. G. Slaughter is making great preparations for his entertainment on the 18th. —Some of our sportsmen are disregarding the game law, and have commenced war on the birds.

—Our farmers have about all their tobacco housed and are complaining of it being injured in the house.

—What a pity our towns is not incorporated. We have a lot of idle negroes that are fit subjects for the rock pile.

—Mr. J. Allen, of Livingston, entered upon the duties as railroad agent at this place Saturday. J. W. Smith and J. R. Henry have gone to Kansas prospecting. J. G. Barnes has just returned from the city, where he has been laying in a stock of goods for C. Shumate. Willis Ad-Jr., and wife, of Mt. Vernon, are visiting relatives here.

CUT CORN EARLY.—Corn should be cut very early; that is much earlier than usual and while it is yet quite green, for then the grain will be just as good, and the fodder be worth as much again. Just as soon as this corn is cut the stubble should be cultivated or dragged and sowed to rye or oats, dragged again the other way and left to grow. This by the time the husking is done will give a fine green crop for pasturing, or to use for shading the soil, or for green manuring, and the following year the soil will be in the best possible condition for its next field crop. Corn I believe to be the nicest crop our farmers grow. Its production seems quite natural and easy for our land, the tilling of it with modern tools and management is mostly done with horses, and not with much more outlay of work than the common summer fallow requires. The stover, if properly managed, will give about as much and as good fodder, acre for acre, as a common meadow would. The grain is also as good as other crops of any kind on the farm, and then the corn stubble might furnish the best fall and other spring pasture, if wanted for that purpose, and withal the land is kept clear of foul growth until wanted for another farm crop.—[Henry Ives.

THE STICK THAT WAS LEFT.—Maurice Melrose is one of the "greenery, gallery" young men who fills a vacancy in society, and the other evening he was out calling. He stayed about an hour and went of leaving his cane in the hall. He missed it in a few minutes and came back after it, the young lady's sister meeting him at the door.

"Aw, my little girl," he said, "weally, I beg your pardon; don't you know, but I think I left a stick here."

"I don't think you did, Mr. Melrose. I heard sister say so."

"Aw, indeed, you flatter me; but how should your sister know? She did not see me go out, don't you know?"

"I don't know sir, but I heard her say to Mr. Benton, when you left: 'Well, thank heaven, that stick's gone at last.' That's all I know about it, Mr. Melrose."

He didn't prosecute his inquiries any further.

ARTIFICIAL ICE.—A lecture on artificial ice was lately delivered in London in which Mr. Le Fevre stated that "hitherto difficulties had to be encountered in the manufacture of ice, chief among which was this—that ice could only be produced in small thin cakes opaque and snowy in appearance, owing to the complication of the machinery. Recently patented machinery and appliances had overcome these difficulties and could produce ice perfectly pure and transparent in large solid blocks of uniform size and thickness. Manufactured ice was purer cheaper and more lasting than natural ice. The introduction of artificial ice has broken down a monopoly which had existed in the market for natural ice, and there was now no reason why the consumption of ice should not be widespread and popular."

Rag-weed is becoming a formidable pest in many sections and it is undoubtedly with some persons a cause of hay fever. It appears abundantly in the stubble of wheat fields and when in blossom the pollen wafted by the winds produces a ticklish sensation in the nose and eyes. In wheat fields it starts up more quickly than young clover and a month after harvest if the mower is run over the field just low enough to cut off the clover leaves, the rag-weed will thereafter be kept under. As it is an annual, a good growth of clover entirely smothered it the second year so that none will appear in the hay.

The qualification required for a voter in the State of Kentucky is that he must be a male citizen, 21 years of age, having resided two years in the State, or one year in the county and 60 days in a precinct immediately preceding an election.

A species of lizard called the hell-bender is now considered a delicacy by New York epicures. It is about 10 inches in length and of a dirty mud color, and provided with four legs and a tail, the flesh is said to be delicious.

Our government has now $170,000,000, or 600 freight car loads of silver dollars piled up in its treasury vaults, and is still manufacturing at the rate of two million a month.

FREE DISTRIBUTION.

"What causes the great rush at McRoberts & Stagg's Drug Store?" The free distribution of sample bottles of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup, the most popular remedy for Coughs, Colds, Consumption and Bronchitis now on the market. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

BLAINE'S METHODS.

"The Essence of the Mulligan Letters."

"You offer to admit me to a participation in the new railroad enterprise in every respect as generous as I could expect or desire."

"You spoke of Mr. Caldwell disposing of a share of his interest to me. If he really designs to do so I wish he would make the proposition definite, so that I could know just what to depend on. Perhaps, if he waits till the full development of the enterprise, he might grow reluctant to part with his share, and I do not by this mean any distrust of him."

"I do not feel that I shall prove a deadhead in the enterprise if I once embark in it. I see various channels in which I know I can be useful."

"You ask me if I am satisfied with the offer you made of a share in your new railroad enterprise. Of course, I am more than satisfied with the terms of the offer. I think it a most liberal proposition."

"Enclose you part of the Congressional Globe of April 9, containing the point to which I referred at some length in my previous letter of to-day. You will find it of interest to read it over and see what a narrow escape your bill made on that last night of the session. Of course, it was my plain duty to make the ruling when the point was once raised."

"I beg you to understand that I thoroughly appreciate the courtesy with which you have treated me in this railroad matter, but your conduct toward me in business matters has only been marked by unbounded liberality in past years, and of course I have naturally come to expect the same of you now."

"I am bothered by only one thing, and that is the indefinite arrangements with Mr. Caldwell. I am anxious to acquire the interest he has promised me, but I do not get a definite understanding with him as I have with you."

"In this dilemma Roots came to know what on earth he could do under the rules, for he said it was vital to his constituents that the bill should pass. I told him that Julian's amendment was entirely out of order, because not germane; but he had not sufficient confidence in his knowledge of the rules to make the point, but he said Gen. Logan was opposed to the Fremont scheme, and would probably make the point. I sent my page to Gen. Logan with the suggestion, and he at once made the point. I could not do otherwise than sustain it."

Don't Look Like a Wreck.

"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is true, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment. It keeps falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation and sold at the low price of 50c.

A New Discovery.

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Iowa, says, "My has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved her very much and the second bottle absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years." Trial bottles free at Penny & McAllister's Drug Store. THE Ohio election occurs to-day and while we are not so rash as to predict a democratic victory, seeing that the State has failed us since 1856, the outlook is particularly bright. The democrats have made a noble fight, though contending against strong odds, and if they should win, their victory will be the grandest on record. In addition to the Blaine hippodrome, the Logan circus and the importation of negroes by the thousands, it is said that $350,000 has been wrung from the office holders to corrupt the ballot there. That the republicans are greatly alarmed lest this one of their most certain States, should slip from their grasp, shows how desperate is their cause in their own estimation, and how fearful they are that the rascals must go. The result in Ohio to day will go far toward determining the result in November and will practically settle it in favor of the democracy should it carry the State or even reduce the heretofore large republican majority.

In September, 1872, the New York Tribune, discussing the Union Pacific Railway jobbing record of James G. Blaine, said: "It may be nobody's business how he (Blaine) became a millionaire on a Congress-man's pay, but it is the business of his constituents and of the country to know how the speaker of the House of Representatives came into this rich railway speculation." The Tribune has changed considerably since then and now supports Blaine, but a great many people in this country are now talking about Blaine precisely as the Tribune talked about him in 1872.

GEN. LOGAN proved himself to be a dirty, sneaking coward at Hinton, Va. Va., the other day by spitting in a man's face, because he said that Logan raised the first rebel flag in Illinois. No gentleman would use such means of insult to any person, however low, nor would any but a most ardent coward take advantage of his surroundings to do that which he would not dare to do, were he not protected by his claquers. Many a man would follow Logan up to kill him and we do not know but what he would do the country a service.

THE probabilities are far from indicating that Massachusetts is a sure State for the republican ticket this year. If its electoral votes go to Cleveland it will not be needed to elect him, but it will be important as giving emphasis to the protest against a corrupt candidate in the strongest of republican States and one in which the principles of the party have always had a powerful hold.—[N. Y. Times.

WHEN Blaine was building his fine house in Washington, the contractor presented a bill of $9,000 for extras, saying that labor was so high he was compelled to do so, whereupon Blaine wrote to him, "Two dollars a day is enough for any mechanic, and no laborer ought to be paid more than one dollar per day." Can the workmen vote for a candidate with such ideas of the value of his services?

DR. C. C. GRAHAM turned his one hundredth year Friday and the event was celebrated by a grand dinner given in his honor at the Louisville Hotel. There were just 100 guest present, the larger portion of whom had passed the allotted three score and ten. Dr. Graham looked well and said he felt better than he had for fifty years. He is wonderfully preserved for his unusual age.

THE Three Forks Enterprise says Judge Sebastain, the nominee of the republican party, is a self-made man. He will be everlastingly licked now. A man who had the making of himself and had to more sense than to make a republicn of himself would be a sorry man to send to Congress. The Judge had better keep in sight of home.—[Frankfort Capital.

NEW YORK does not work her convicts outside the penitentiary, but their cheap labor necessarily comes in direct competition with free labor. The report of the Superintendent of the State prisons in New York show an excess of $10,858.07 in receipts over expenditures during the past year. Sing Sing earned $63,000 over expenses.

A DEMOCRATIC poll of the vote of Ohio gives the democracy 9,000 majority, after giving the republicans all the doubtful votes. A correspondent writes: "My own unbiased opinion is that they will meet with a stunning defeat, and the democratic ticket will have a majority of 15,000."

It is just three weeks to-day till the American people will proclaim at the ballot box, their disgust with republican methods and their contempt for its candidate reeking all over with venality and corruption. The signs all point unceasingly to the fact that the rascals must go.

THE democrats of West Virginia are talking about a majority of 10,000 to day. The performances of Blaine and Logan in that section of the country seem to have been totally wasted.

THE handsome and artistic cover which now adorns the Chicago Current was designed by the poet-artist, Robert Barnes Wilson, of Frankfort, and is indeed a credit to his taste and skill.

JOHN MCLEAN says the vote in Ohio will be very close to day, while M. Halstead only claims 10,000 or 15,000 majority for the republicans

THE Louisville Times heads a letter: "Charlie Kinsaid turns up in Scotland." That's a long ways to go for such a purpose.

JOE HUGHES confessed to carrying a deadly weapon concealed and was given 10 days in jail and fined $25. We understand that Hughes has been making murderous threats against a certain good citizen, which we call upon the authorities to investigate. It will be too late to take cautionary measures after he carries his designs into effect.

WHILE under arrest for carrying concealed weapons, Saturday and while before Judge Varnon in the County Court room, awaiting his decision as to the day he should be tried, John Lawson leaped out of the window and began to make a 240 gait to tall timber. Jailer Tom Newland was too much for him however, and after a sharp chase, brought back his game.

NEXT Saturday the L. & N. will run a special excursion train from here to Louisville at $1.50 for the round trip, which includes admission to the Exposition. It will leave here at 5:47 A. M. and arrive at the Exposition platform at 11 A. M. Returning, will leave there at 10:15 P. M., same night. Excursion trains also run from other points on the road at the same low rate.

THE Stanford capitalists have been called on to assist in starting another bank and have promptly responded. Mr. M. C. Miller, Jr., of the Farmers National Bank, succeeded in a short time in raising $50,000 for a new bank in Austin, Texas, which is to be organized with a capital of $100,000 and of which he is to be cashier. Mr. Miller is a good business man and will no doubt make the bank a success.

THE performance of "Peck's Bad Boy" at Charley Shay's Academy of Music has thus far drawn excellent houses. Mr. Phil S. Greiner, in the title role, has made a genuine hit. His natural, spontaneous humor is decidedly refreshing. The play, as the title suggests, is replete with funny situations and bristling with "points" almost every line and situation causing a laugh, while the plot which runs through the play sustains the interest until the fall of the curtain on the last act. The company supporting Mr. Greiner is composed of competent and talented ladies and gentlemen. The orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Willis Hobbs, renders some charming selections from the latest popular music, which is a feature at this popular theatre. [Winchester Intelligencer.

—The music at the Baptist Church is becoming a decided feature. In addition to the well played organ and some fine voices, Mr. Joe F. Waters now assists with a cornet and the improvement is decidedly marked.

SHAPELY WOMEN.—Three or four decades ago American men and women were generally lean and bony. Our women especially were lank and thin. Of late years, however, a change in the shape of our people has been noted. The change is not yet very marked with the men, but the women are growing round and fat. At our watering places, where people from all parts of the country congregate, a bony woman is a rare sight. Most of the women are plump and well rounded. It is to be observed, however, that sleekness and curved outlines belong to the well-to-do and leisurely classes of society. Among hard workers and the people on the frontiers the lean and bony type still predominates.

—A "Terror" who said he was from Illinois came to town Sunday, taking supper at the Clemens house. He was riding a fine horse which he sold, buying afterwards a Texas pony from Wakefield & Co. He rode away on the Mustang saying he was bound for Virginia. He displayed conspicuously a large bowie knife and a large revolver, but he did not carve or shoot a great many people while he was here. He did not register at the hotel where he stopped, so it is impossible to give his name.

—Gov. W. W. Smiley who has had charge of the work house has given it up and will be succeeded by H. W. French, night watch for some time past. Mr. French will be succeeded as night watch by John Ballard, late of Crab Orchard. Mr. French tried to save the fine horse belonging to Judge Sumrall which broke his leg last week. He encased the broken limb in plaster of paris and performed other surgical operations, but the poor animal did not do well and in order to end his sufferings he was shot and killed Sunday evening.

—Col. G. H. Dobyns has returned from Louisville, where he has been in the interest of the administration of justice(?) It seems that several months ago a negro boy about 13 years old squeezed himself through the window of the ware house of Hugley's distillery and carried off several pints of whisky which he disposed of to other boys. He was arrested and carried to Louisville for violation of the U. S. Revenue laws and Col. Dobyns, who is storekeeper, was compelled to appear as a witness in the case. When Judge Barr heard, the case he asked why some one did not switch the boy instead of bringing such a trifling matter into court.

ANOTHER ROUSEY KILLED.

PARKSVILLE, Oct. 13.—Geo. W. Rousey was shot and killed in a 1/2 of a mile of this village this morning about 7:30 o'clock. He was coming down the knob to this place with a load of posts. Two shots were distinctly heard by parties in town and immediately after the first shot some one, supposed to be Rousey, was heard to halloo "Oh! Lordy." The team of mules with the wagon came on to town and stopped at the place where he was in the habit of unloading posts. The shots took effect, one in his left breast, the other in his neck, either would have been fatal. Rousey fell between the wheels and was dragged some distance by the wagon, when the wheel passed over his leg breaking it. Coroner W. P. Withrow was sent for, and summoned a jury composed of our best citizens, J. A. and F. M. Bower testified that they heard shots and heard him say "Oh! Lordy." Mariah Durham, col., testified that she saw two men going toward where Rousey was killed, just preceding the shooting, and recognized them as being James Sheeren and Ben McGinnis. Geo. Rousey, as many readers of this paper will remember, is the son of John Rousey, who killed John Lamb some years ago. Afterward George killed Jasper Sheeren, brother of John Lamb. These parties are all related and it seems that this kind of work will never cease until every one of the name meets a similar fate. We never knew so much excitement here, as our town is noted for quietude and rarely ever having any disturbance. The jury now fails to make a verdict and are to meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Rousey was a robust fellow about 35 years old and had been considered a very brave man until he killed Jasper Sheeren about a year ago. Some, since then, doubt his bravery. Sheeren and McGinnis, the men accused of the killing are unmarried men and Sheeren has always been noted for his quietude and has never participated in any of the killings, although he is a brother-in-law of Jasper, Cam, Arch and other Rouseys who were killed in your county, while McGinnis is a blacksmith of little notoriety and rather a worthless individual. Nothing should be left undone to find the guilty parties, as life is in continual danger, this being the second act of the kind committed in less than 3 miles of this town in the last 12 months.

AN OCEAN LOVE CHASE.

PURSUED BY A RELENTLESS ADORER.

Struggle on an Ocean Steamer in a Storm—A Man Overboard!—How Roger Won a Beautiful Bride.

[N. Y. Journal.]

Sweet Nellie Allison was undisturbed by the attraction which drew young men to her father's house by the Lake of Killarney. She was a veritable coquette and soon had all of them laying their hands, hearts and fortunes at her feet. Only two of her many suitors appeared to make any impression on her heart. The lucky ones were Harold Fitzpatrick and Roger Lisle. Harold finally asked her to marry him, and she consented. Her father's permission was readily obtained, as he lived for nothing but to see his daughter happy.

The following day Roger asked her to become his wife and almost fainted when she told him she had already become the promised wife of Harold.

Roger turned away with a sigh. One object only in life remained to him—to show how unworthy—as he firmly believed—Harold was of calling Nellie wife. He left the village next day.

Meanwhile the preparations for the wedding between Harold and Nellie went along quickly. The happy day was only three days distant when Roger returned to the country. His appearance caused a sensation. He was pale and haggard. The next day, however, another sensation startled the peaceful villagers. Nellie Allison and her betrothed husband had disappeared. When this was known Roger Lisle entered the Allison mansion, which he had not entered since his summary dismissal by Nellie. He asked to see Mr. Allison alone. His request was granted. Roger told him he had found out that Harold had already been married in England and after living with his wife a year had basely deserted her. When he returned to the village he called on Harold and informed him of the story. He had promised to do this, but had induced Nellie to accompany him.

Roger, after leaving Mr. Allison, again left the village. He traced the fugitives as far as Liverpool and after much difficulty found that they had taken passage on a White Star steamship that was about to sail early next morning. Without hesitation Roger hired a ferryman and was taken on board and hid himself in the steerage. There he disguised himself as an immigrant and prepared to watch for the arrivals. He watched all night in vain for several days. One very stormy night, when the rain poured down in torrents and the waves ran mountains high, he crawled up on the second deck for the purpose of getting some air. He was surprised to hear voices. The words were:

"Nelly, I will marry you as soon as we reach America. But I don't see why you didn't obtain the one thousand pounds sterling from the old man's safe, though. He would never say anything about it."

"What would you have me steal, Harold?" answered a low, sweet voice.

"Steal? Pshaw!" returned Harold with a coarse laugh. "You better turn in now, I want to smoke a little."

She turned slowly away with a stifled sob. After she disappeared Harold muttered: "Poor fool! But will not be your due much longer," cried a hoarse voice at his elbow. He turned and even in the inky darkness the white, determined face of Roger could be seen. In a moment he had grappled with him. The two men with bated breath struggled for the mastery. Finally Harold, who was much the stronger, lifted his opponent upon the guard rail and with a fierce imprecation hurled him into the water.

"Help!" Four days later the White Star steamer, with Harold and Nellie, arrived in this city. When they landed at Castle Garden neither noticed a medium-sized man with black side-whiskers and hair who hovered near them like a messenger of ill-omen. The young couple went to a boarding-house on Greenwich street. While at the supper-table Harold chanced to put his hand in his coat pocket. There he felt a crumpled note. He opened it, and when he read the one word in it he fainted. The word was "murderer." The note fluttered to the ground unseen. Harold soon revived; his cheeks were blanched, but he managed to stammer out:

"I was overcome with the heat."

He told Nellie that night that he would marry her next morning. Bright and early a minister was called in and opened the marriage service. Suddenly a deep voice cried out:

"I forbid this marriage. That man has been already married. Here are the proofs."

Harold gasped something inaudible, then gave a wild, convulsive laugh and fell prone on the floor. Nellie fainted. Roger, for it was he, then stepped forward and told in a plain manner what he had discovered about Harold's early career, not forgetting to mention the fact of his being thrown overboard by Harold. He had been picked up almost by a miracle by a steamship in the rear, and as it was a faster sailer than the White Star vessel, arrived at New York in advance, and so Roger was enabled to meet the runaway at Castle Garden. It was he who had slipped the note into Harold's pocket.

During this explanation Harold had not stirred. He still lay prone on the ground. He had fainted. When he recovered it was found that he was a maniac. He was returned to England and there put in a private insane asylum by his friends.

Nellie was deeply grateful to Roger for saving her from the fate which Harold intended for her. She pleaded for forgiveness for the way she treated him at their first meeting. She told him that Harold had induced her to leave home by telling her that Roger had threatened to kill him on their wedding day. The young couple returned to Ireland, but not to stay. Harold again asked her to be his wife and this time was not refused. They returned to America a few days ago with Mr. Allison, whose home in Ireland had become distasteful to him. They are now living in Chicago.

WAYS OF CONNECTICUT CATS.

How Two Wise Mothers Garded Their Offspring—Great Cat Mortality.

(Norwich Cor. N. Y. Sun.)

The Connecticut cat is fertile in expedients. Ed. Parkhurst's cat, at Norwich Town, finding that she could not live peaceably with dogs, boys, and other cats, took her kittens in her teeth, one at a time, scratched her way up the bark of a big elm in the front yard, and stowed them in a hole in the tree, eighteen feet from the ground, that was two feet deep, with an opening just large enough for her to crawl through. There she enjoyed life with her family. When she was off calling at night she knew that the kittens were safe. She was in the hole from early in August until a heavy rain storm came on a few days ago, and the tree leaked. In the height of the storm she crawled out with a kitten in her mouth and transferred it to the house cellar. With great difficulty she carried all the kittens to the cellar.

John G. Cooley's cat, at North Franklin, disliked the confinement incurred in watching four kittens all day, and she placed them under a mother hen, which was trying to hatch a porcelain egg in a nest, two feet away, on the same hayrack. The hen clucked, lifted her wings, and welcomed the litter. The cat went off to while away the day, returned at night, and took back her offspring. Each morning thereafter the kittens were put off on the hen, the cat strolled away, and the hen entertained them by clucking to them until the cat came back at night. They answered to both the clucking of the hen and the specific maternal call. The hen sat on the kittens for about two weeks, and then they ran away, leaving her disconsolate. There was a void in her affections that a porcelain egg was incompetent to fill. After brooding on her nest for two days she gave up the attempt to hatch the egg, and began to lay eggs again. Mr. Cooley believes that a litter of kittens is the only thing, except death, that will "break up" a sitting hen.

Last winter an extraordinary distemper appeared among the cats of Eastern Connecticut that kept them sneezing and kept on until their vitality was exhausted, and they died. They moped about the roads with swollen heads, sneezing continually, and when their anxious mistress approached scowled wickedly at them. Many valuable cats, some of them worth ten dollars to their owners, perished in the towns and villages of Windham and New London Counties. In some cases the sick cats were chased down and subjected to medical treatment, and it was discovered that the patient died at an earlier stage of complaint than if permitted to die unaided. This fall a new and still more deadly distemper is approaching from Danbury, in the western part of the State. It has already reached the Connecticut valley, and owners of favorite cats in the Thames, Shetucket and Quinnabug River valleys are in a flutter of expectation and dread. The disease works very rapidly. It comes on without any preliminary symptoms, the hair comes off and the cat swells to such a size that he can not climb over a sound, and, after a day or two, he dies of melancholy and disappointment. Physicians are unable to successfully diagnose the disease, which does not yield to the old-school practice or to catnip.

Pronunciation in Lincolnshire. (Hartford Courant.)

Our American custom of calling the prong of a fork a tine is a Lincolnshire peculiarity and came over with our fathers. The more general word prong is understood in Lincolnshire alone. The older men here distinctly remember the pronunciation of nature and creature, nature and critter, just as they were pronounced in New England fifty years ago. Perhaps the most amusing of these local peculiarities is the old-fashioned Lincolnshire way of calling a cucumber a cucumbar, which the older readers of the Courant will promptly recall as common in their childhood. So, too, that quaint archaism which many of us so well remember of calling a cow a caow, and a pound a pound, remains in full force not only in Lincolnshire, but has extended throughout all England, and may be called the accepted pronunciation of the diphthong ou. I hear it, not only in the cathedral pulpits, but on the lips of the shop boys. It has survived in Philadelphia and, perhaps, elsewhere with us, but it has mainly been laughed out of New England.

But to me the most interesting connection between Lincolnshire and New England pronunciation is the little word "been." It has long been a wonder to me how and why that word should be pronounced not only in New England, but throughout the United States, so different from what it is in England and in all her many colonies. In England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, Australia, Nova Scotia, South Africa, it is made to rhyme with seen and between, whereas in our country it is made to rhyme with sin and din. It was all explained when I came to Lincolnshire and found that the old local usage there was to call it bin, and that is not yet entirely driven out to this day. I have not been able to trace that other old-fashioned pronunciation of the same word, "been," but I could not find it in Lincolnshire. But many words which older people will remember as now mostly gone by, such as put with a 'short' i, pretty pronounced putty and putty, heard pronounced heard, I find well remembered in Lincoln and Boston.

Mosquitoes. (Baltimore Sun.)

A correspondent writes of the trials and tribulations from mosquitoes as follows: "I live in Anne Arundel County, Md., near Patuxent River, on a farm which is known by the name of Terrapin Island. On account of dry weather the mosquitoes are in abundance. Sunday night August 31, they seemed to receive reinforcements, and attacked my house. From loss of rest by the insects myself and family were determined to sleep the next night if possible. Being a mechanic, I had made a frame to go over my bedstead and covered it with a mosquito net. But the tormenting mosquitoes soon drove us from under the netting. I came to the conclusion that the netting was not fine enough. I pulled the bed from the bedstead to the floor, took the frame and placed it over the bed, and used five quilts. One I placed over the top of the frame, four around the sides, and secured the corners well. Then, thinking we would get a nap, myself, wife and child laid down, but in less than thirty minutes the pests were under the covers so thick that the very noise would waken a person without biting. I could be thankful to know what way I can manage them."

The Cincinnati District Court has re-sentenced Joe Palmer, Besser's accomplice, to hang Oct. 31, before noon.

ORDER OF ELECTION.

The Lincoln County Court composed of the County Judge and the Justices of the Peace of Lincoln county at its term held on Monday, the 6th day of October, 1884, made the following order:

This day W. G. Welch appeared and read to the court an act of the General Assembly of Kentucky entitled, "An act to authorize Lincoln county to raise money to aid in the construction of a railroad through said county," approved May 1, 1884 and thereupon presented a petition, which is filed, signed by the Chesapeake & Nashville Railway Co. by E. Zimmerman, President, and by W. G. Welch and 27 other citizens and residents of the justices' districts of Stanford, Walnut Flat, Turnersville and Hustonville precincts, asking this court to cause an election to be held in said districts to take the sense of the qualified voters therein upon the proposition hereinafter set forth. Upon consideration of which petition the prayer thereof is granted and the court hereby orders that an election shall be held on Saturday the 15th day of November, 1884 in said Stanford, Walnut Flat, Turnersville and Hustonville justices' districts or precincts to take the sense of the qualified voters therein upon the following stated proposition, to-wit: Whether or not the county of Lincoln shall issue bonds to the amount of $150,000 upon the credit and responsibility of the four above named districts and whether said county upon the credit and responsibility of the said districts shall acquire by purchase or gift, title to or the right-of-way over a strip of land through the county, such as may be necessary for the right-of-way, or for depots and such grounds as may be necessary at Stanford, Ky., for depot buildings, machine shops, round houses, water supply, &c., for the said Chesapeake & Nashville Railway. The amount of money to be raised, and for the raising of which bonds are to be issued, in case the qualified voters in said districts by a majority vote adopt or affirm this proposition, is the aforesaid sum of $150,000, and such additional sum as may be necessary to acquire the aforesaid rights-of-way, &c. The bonds to be issued for the purpose of raising said proposed sums of money shall not be sold at less than their par value nor bear a greater rate of interest than six per cent. per annum and to be due twenty years from the date when issued, or sooner, at the option of Lincoln county. The proceeds of said bonds are to be invested in the acquisition of the right-of-way aforesaid and in the purchase at their par value of the first mortgage bonds of said Chesapeake & Nashville Railway Company, the purpose of the proposed action of said four districts being to aid the company in the construction and equipment of their road. But no such investment in bonds or right-of-way is to be made, unless their said road is built from Richmond Junction in Lincoln county and extended from that point through Lincoln county in a westerly direction to Nashville, Tenn., or to some railroad running to Nashville and unless said road is as well and substantially built and equipped as the main stem of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and no greater amount of such first mortgage bonds are to be issued by the company than $30,000 to the mile, and said bonds are not to be taken or paid for except when an equivalent amount of work on said road has been done (upon estimate of competent engineers) in Lincoln county, and 30 per cent. of same shall not be paid until the whole road from Richmond Junction in Kentucky, to Nashville in Tennessee is completed. The said right-of-way, &c., as hereinbefore mentioned, are to be ceded to said railway company upon such terms as they may agree upon, to be paid in the capital stock of said company, by the commissioners to be appointed in behalf of Lincoln county in the event this proposition shall be adopted by the qualified voters as aforesaid.

It is further ordered that the officers appointed to hold the regular election in said districts or precincts for the present year (except the sheriffs, who are to be appointed by the sheriff of Lincoln county as his deputies) shall hold the election and take the vote herein provided for at the regular places of voting in each of said districts on the said 15th day of November, 1884. At said election each voter shall be asked whether he votes for or against the proposition hereinbefore recited and his vote shall be recorded in a poll book to be provided by the clerk of this court at expense of county for that purpose at each voting place, which shall be returned in the time and by the same officers as in case of general elections, and the result of said election is to be ascertained and certified in the manner prescribed by the act hereinbefore referred to. In each of said poll books there shall be a column headed, "For Railroad Aid" and a column headed "Against Railroad Aid" and the votes of all persons voting in favor of the proposition herein recited shall be recorded in the column first named and of those voting against said proposition in the column last named.

At least 20 days' notice shall be given by the sheriff of Lincoln county of the election herein ordered by publication in the INTERIOR JOURNAL newspaper and by printed notices posted up at not less than three public places in each district in which the election is to be held.

This order is made under the authority conferred by the act of Assembly aforesaid, approved May 1, 1884 and is intended to be in strict conformity to the provisions thereof.
